City lobbying for power to seize bandit cabs

- Police, taxi union on board with city's plan: Report
- Province says move could violate Charter of Rights and Freedoms

City council wants more power to crack down bandit taxis, but the provincial government says what they want might not be legal.

The community and protective services committee unanimously passed a motion Thursday to lobby the province for a law that would allow bylaw officers to seize and impound illegal taxis.

Committee chairman Coun. Mark Taylor said it is a "good start" at making the public safer from bandit cabs.

"Having the legislation in place won't, in and of itself, prevent every incident, but allowing us to put some teeth into our enforcement ability, it will hopefully deter people," he said.

Now, only police officers can enforce the section of the Highway Traffic Act that prohibits bandit taxis, and they do not have the power to seize the cabs, according to a report by city staff.

Last month, police charged a man with sexual assault, theft and other offences, and police said he they believed the man offered a least one of his alleged victims a ride in his illegal taxi.

City officials have already asked the province to grant the power to seize illegal cabs and been turned down. The province says seizing illegal cabs might be a rights violation.

"There exists the potential for violating the illegal search and seizure provisions of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms," wrote Minister of Transportation Kathleen Wynne in a letter to the city solicitor in January.

"This is something that jeopardizes not just the security of the taxi industry; it jeopardizes the safety of residents and regular folks who just want to go out and have a good time in the evening."

▶ Poet Ray Guillermo

Advocates of art get their say

The community and protective services committee meeting got a little theatrical Thursday when members of Ottawa's art scene made their voices heard over council's strategic priorities — with a standing ovation and spoken-word poetry.

A motion to include an arts and heritage plan into the official document that outlines council's priorities until 2014 was met with prolonged, standing applause by the packed public gallery.

Coun. Diane Holmes said it was "taken for granted" the arts and heritage plan was included as a priority, but wasn't explicitly included in the original wording.

The omission caused dismay in the arts community said the many members of the public who spoke passionately about the importance of arts — including Ray Guillermo, who delivered his speech as spoken-word poetry.

Arts Court is the main recipient of funding outlined in the draft priorities document.

35-year-old mom hopes initiative will raise awareness of breast cancer for women her age ◐ She advises women to protect themselves

Breast cancer survivor Jamie Johnston is asking women to clean out their closets and donate their used wedding dresses to help her Breast Dress Project.

On Sunday, women can donate or buy wedding dresses that are four years old or newer at Groovy Linen Rentals and Johnston will donate all proceeds to breast cancer research.

"Some people want to hang onto their dresses but we've been quite amazed at the amount of women who have given up their dresses," said Johnston.

"I guess they see that they're never going to use it again and that it can go to a good cause."

The mother of two has been collecting dresses for this cause since 2009 — the year she was diagnosed with breast cancer for the first time.

She was diagnosed a second time in February.

"I just hope that women are starting to realize that this isn't even just a grandma's or mother's disease," she said. "It's affecting us at our age level — those who are getting married are getting breast cancer now."

Schedule

1. Sunday's fundraiser will be held from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at Groovy Linen Rentals at 19 Grenfall Cr. (white building behind building No. 19).
2. Dress sizes range from 4 to 24. Veils and shoes are also part of the wedding collection.

Fire spreads to ex-Senator's home in Kanata

An explosion and fire destroyed one home and damaged another in Kanata's Bridlewood neighbourhood Wednesday night.

A family of five living at 168 Grassy Plains Dr. had to flee their home when they heard explosions in their garage.

Firefighters responding to 911 calls arrived to find the house "fully involved" and evacuated neighbouring homes. The fire spread to the home of former Ottawa Senator Shaun Van Allen. Van Allen's home was damaged, and both families were displaced. The fire service says damage is estimated at $850,000. METRO

The annual House of PainT urban art festival not only showcases local talent, it's also a perfect opportunity to demonstrate the value of legal graffiti walls, says the event's founder, Sabra Ripley.

"I think it's really important for artists to express themselves," said Ripley. "I think that's doubly important in Ottawa if you look at how many artists grow up in Ottawa and eventually leave to Montreal and Toronto, where they have a better opportunity to present their work."

Ripley and her partners championed the fight for the city's first legal graffiti wall under the Dunbar Bridge near Brewar Park. Legal walls, she said, give graffiti artists the ability to express themselves artistically in a safe environment.

Graffiti, though, is just one element of the House of PainT. Break dancers, DJs and MCs will also descend upon the nation's capital from Aug. 3–7, showing a different side of Ottawa's urban culture.

The full event lineup will be announced soon.

Living-wage plan dead

Ontario minimum wage $3 less than the 'living wage': ACORN

JESSICA SMITH
@METRONEWS.CA

A plan to make sure anyone who does work for city hall gets a "living wage," rather than "minimum wage," is dead after a committee refused Thursday to authorize further study on the issue.

The proposal to make contractors with the city pay employees at least $13.25 an hour was voted down in December because it would have cost $2.5 million and required tax hikes.

On Thursday, Coun. Diane Holmes proposed another look at the numbers because evidence from other cities suggests it might not be as expensive as staff first thought, she said. Her motion was defeated by a slim margin after city staff said it would cost the city about $25,000 to $30,000 for another study.

"Perhaps some of their children, instead of wandering the streets, would participate in recreational programs."
NADIA WILLARD, MEMBER OF ANTI-POVERTY GROUP ACORN

Nadia Willard, a member of the anti-poverty group ACORN, said the Living Wage plan would have made concrete differences in the lives of minimum wage earners.

Friends of Lansdowne present argument

The Friends of Lansdowne court case wrapped up for the week yesterday with the group's lawyer arguing the Lansdowne Partnership Plan is too good for the developers to be legal.

The group claims the plan to build a residential and commercial development in Lansdowne Park by offering city land to the Ottawa Sports and Entertainment Group for a nominal rent constitutes an "illegal bonus" under the Municipal Act.

On Monday, lawyers will be discussing whether or not to bring in experts to aid the judge in understanding the financial arguments, said Friends of Lansdowne spokesman Doug Ward.

"The judge in his wisdom has come to realize how complex this deal is and none of us want this to go to appeal," said Ward. "We want this done right the first time, which means the judge probably does need expert advice, independent advice, so I think it's a wise call on the judge's part." JESSICA SMITH

New Summer Service

On Sunday, June 26, new summer schedules go into effect on most routes to reflect the reduced demand for service in the summer.

You should obtain a new timetable for most peak period and express routes as well as the following routes: 1, 2, 3, 5, 7, 9, 12, 14, 18, 85, 86, 87, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 101, 111, 112, 114, 116, 117, 118, 122, 124, 125, 126, 129, 140, 146, 149, 151, 166, 172, 175 and 176.

Highlights

Route 94 will have two new trips departing Tunney's Pasture at 4:55 and 5:25 a.m. going to Orléans, and another trip leaving Innes at Jeanne d'Arc at 6:07 a.m. travelling to Tunney's Pasture. These new trips will improve service for early morning commuters.

Downtown Station Improvements

Renovations will soon be underway downtown on Albert Street, at Bay and Metcalfe Stations, which are designed to improve operational efficiencies, safety and customer comfort, while enhancing the appearance of the downtown core. Improvements include new platform waiting areas, spacious shelters, better grading and drainage, and wiring for future telecommunications.

Renovations will start approximately July 4 and be ongoing through the summer. Temporary platforms and bus stops will be installed just west of the existing locations. Thank you for your patience.

Singer bringing minimalist style to NAC

- Susie Arioli has carved out a solid reputation for herself on the international scene
- Montreal musician says her show will take audiences back to a simpler, more melodic style of jazz

▶ Susie Arioli

When Susie Arioli and the Glenn Miller Orchestra hit the stage of the National Arts Centre Saturday night, the audience will be taken back to a different time in music.

"In contrast to more modern forms of jazz, which are a bit more individual and cater to mostly improvisation, (with the) Glenn Miller band and us, there is a desire to express that control and restraint," said singer Arioli, who hails from Montreal.

"(We want) to make a pure, beautiful collective sound and play melodies that are crafted so that they lodge in your brain in a really beautiful, comforting way."

Arioli and her band mates Jordan Officer, on guitar, and Bill Gossage, on double bass, provide a foil to the big band for which she is opening.

While the Glenn Miller Orchestra will perform its own timeless classics such as In the Mood and Moonlight Serenade, Arioli said she'll be performing clear, simple, beautiful jazz melodies.

"It's neat that you can do that in a minimalist way, the way we do it, or a maximalist way the way the Glenn Miller band does it," she said.

The show starts at 8 p.m. in Southam Hall. Tickets start at $41.69 and are available at the NAC box office or by phone at 1-888-991-2787.

ABCs of baby fat

Daycares must promote good habits: Report

With one in five U.S. youngsters already overweight or obese by the time they start school, a new report urges steps to help prevent babies, toddlers and preschoolers from getting too pudgy too soon.

Topping the list: Better dietary guidelines to help parents and caregivers know just how much toddlers should eat as they transition from baby food to bigger-kid fare.

Contrary to popular belief, children don't usually outgrow their baby fat — and that can lead to lasting bad effects on their health as they grow, suggests the report.

"It's a huge opportunity to instil good habits at a time when you don't have to change old ones," said Leann Birch, director of Pennsylvania State University's Center for Childhood Obesity Research, who chaired the institute's panel.

Consider: Babies drink milk until they're full and then turn away. But children as young as two or three are sensitive to portion size.

"If you give them larger portions, they eat more," Birch explained.

Of course, parents have the biggest influence over whether healthy eating and being active become a child's norm. But the report makes the case that children's habits are influenced by far more than their parents — and thus it is time to expand obesity prevention to more of the other places youngsters spend time. For example, nearly three-fourths of children ages two to five spend at least part of their day in some form of child care.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Healthy weight

The new report is not about putting the very young on a diet. At the top of the report's list:

- Daycare and preschool operators should be trained in proper physical activity for young children, providing at least 15 minutes of it per hour the child spends there.
- Regulations should limit how long toddlers and preschoolers sit or stand still to a maximum 30 minutes — and limit holding babies in swings, bouncy seats or other equipment while they're awake.

On her first visit to South Africa, U.S. first lady Michelle Obama met with former Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu, the country's leader in the fight for racial equality. With her daughters, she also visited Cape Town's District Six Museum, which memorializes the forced segregation of a once vibrant and racially mixed area of this coastal city. A long-planned ferry ride to Nelson Mandela's Rodden Island prison cell was cancelled because of high winds that made the Atlantic Ocean waters too rough, according to the first lady's aides.

Rising river spurs mad rush to save city

10,000 residents moved to safety as floodwaters move into Minot, N.D. Trailer park engulfed Missouri and Nebraska brace for trouble, too

Crews worked furiously Thursday to raise earthen levees in a last-ditch effort to protect North Dakota's fourth-largest city from floodwaters.

Trucks and loaders carried clay and dirt to waiting Bobcats that sped to and fro, spreading and tamping the material atop levees in Minot.

But as the Souris River kept rising ominously, officials acknowledged they can't stop significant damage to at least some neighbourhoods.

The workers and National Guard members were the only people to be seen — as many as 10,000 residents, or about one-fourth of Minot's population, have been moved to safety.

Parts of the city were already flooding.

One trailer park near the river was under several feet of water.

Much of Thursday's effort focused on protecting critical infrastructure, including sewer and water service.

More evacuations could become necessary if they are knocked out by flooding.

Mayor Curt Zimbelman said the sewer and water situation was "under control" but being monitored.

The river, which begins in Saskatchewan and flows for a short distance through North Dakota, was all but certain to inundate thousands of homes and businesses during the coming week.

"There are no hotel rooms, no campers to rent — nothing. It's very stressful and it's very annoying."
AQUIRA FRITT, 23, WHO IS SEVEN MONTHS PREGNANT AND PLANNED TO SPEND THE NIGHT IN A VAN WITH HER BOYFRIEND AND FIVE-YEAR-OLD SON

"There are 300 people in shelters and the others have found places with family, friends, some rentals," Zimbelman said.

"But for the long term it's going to be a very difficult situation."

Zimbelman said many people have opened their doors to evacuees.

"I tell you what, North Dakotans are pretty good people," Zimbelman said.

Minot is about 95 kilometres south of the Canadian border.

Meanwhile, in Missouri residents braced themselves for flood trouble as the Missouri River rose.

Water has started pouring over levees in Holt and Atchison counties, flooding homes and cabins.

Kentucky Derby HQ damaged

A tornado smashed stables at the home of the Kentucky Derby, but the legendary track was set to get back to racing Friday after events were postponed for a day.

No people or horses were hurt at Churchill Downs during the Wednesday night storm. Its famed twin spires, grandstand and clubhouse were undamaged.

Churchill Downs president Kevin Flanery said it was the first tornado to strike the 136-year-old track.

Workers and trainers scrambled to pull horses from stables as the storm caved in roofs and tossed debris.

Bin Laden's death graphically depicted

Illustrated book set for release Sept. 6, less than a week before 10th anniversary of 9-11 attacks

The daring secret mission to get Osama bin Laden by elite U.S. forces will be told in the pages of a new graphic novel that aims to shed more light — with a bit of creative licence — on the event.

Written by retired U.S. Marine Capt. Dale Dye and Julia Dye, the 88-page hardcover Code Word: Geronimo takes a look at the mission the authors said was aimed at keeping the focus on those who planned, conducted and executed the raid.

IDW, a San Diego-based publisher known for its line of comics that includes G.I. Joe and Star Trek, said the story of how bin Laden was killed would appeal to both new and established readers.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS/IDW PRODUCTIONS)

▶ Cover image for Code Word: Geronimo.

Julia Dye called the work necessary for the nation, particularly having had to live "within the shadow" of bin Laden for so long.

The story opens with a lone traveller on a dusty road in Pakistan, a rattled pickup passing by. It quickly shifts back and forth to a U.S. compound in Afghanistan to the White House to the house where bin Laden was hiding in Abbottabad, Pakistan.

The book is drawn without gratuitous violence or gore, the artists said.

The members of SEAL Team 6 are not identified by their real names, but the equipment, planning and training that resulted in the May 1 raid are.

Dye drew on his experience in the Marines as well as contacts within the U.S. military to ensure accuracy, but not to the point of being too detailed.

Anti-Islam politician acquitted

The boundaries of free speech in Europe widened Thursday after a Dutch court acquitted politician Geert Wilders of inciting hatred against Muslims when he compared Islam with Nazism and called for a ban on the Qur'an.

Political analysts say the ruling will likely embolden Wilders and other right-wing populists across the continent to ramp up their anti-immigrant rhetoric, with remarks like Wilders' call for a "head rag tax" now squarely within the boundaries of fair political debate.

The ruling did lay down a clear limit: Calls for violence remain out of bounds.

Wilders, who has lived under constant police protection due to death threats since 2004, has never called for violence or endorsed it.

FBI captures mob boss

Notorious gangster was wanted for 19 brutal murders FBI criticized for protecting mob figures when using 'Whitey' and others as informants

Boston mob boss James (Whitey) Bulger was captured near Los Angeles after 16 years on the run that embarrassed the FBI and exposed the bureau's corrupt relationship with its underworld informants.

The FBI finally caught the 81-year-old Bulger on Wednesday at an apartment in Santa Monica, Calif., along with his girlfriend Catherine Greig, just days after the government circulated pictures of her on daytime TV. The arrest was based on a tip from this new campaign.

FBI agents put the apartment under surveillance, lured Bulger out and arrested him without incident, authorities said. The couple were using the aliases Charles and Carol Gasko.

A variety of guns and a large amount of cash were found in the apartment, the FBI said. Federal investigators declined to say how Bulger got enough money to live on.

Bulger had a $2-million US reward on his head and rose to No. 1 on the FBI's Ten Most Wanted list after Osama bin Laden was killed. "Although there are those who have doubted our resolve at times over the years, it has never wavered," said Richard DesLauriers, agent in the charge of the FBI's Boston office. "We followed every lead. We explored every possibility, and when those leads ran out, we did not sit back and wait for the phone to ring."

Bulger faces a slew of federal charges while Greig, 60, is charged with harbouring a fugitive.

Give a hand to Will and Kate

Handshakes and polite conversations are eh-OK when meeting royalty

Prince William and Kate have good reason to hope that Canada's history doesn't repeat itself.

Egregious gaffes have been as much a part of past Canadian royal tours as pomp and circumstance. But with more relaxed protocol standards, including the handshake, experts expect fewer opportunities for embarrassment during their inaugural visit.

The handshake was once considered a protocol faux-pas, said royal tour historian Garry Toffoli, but a new precedent was established in 1860 when an Ontario farmer said to the Prince of Wales, "Put 'er there, Prince," extending his hand. Invitations to stray from the itinerary, however, may not go over as well.

Ex-B.C. premier new London envoy: Sources

26 Campbell resigned after 26 years in politics, nine of them as premier.

The Canadian Press has learned that the Harper government plans to appoint former British Columbia premier Gordon Campbell as Canada's new high commissioner to Britain.

Campbell's elevation to one of Canada's highest diplomatic posts comes after he resigned last fall as B.C. premier. The Liberal premier's popularity plunged when he introduced the 12 per cent harmonized sales tax in 2009.

Prime Minister Stephen Harper also reached across partisan political lines in 2009 when he appointed Manitoba's former NDP premier Gary Doer as his ambassador to Washington — considered Canada's top diplomatic posting.

Sources say the announcement is days away.

Campbell would replace veteran career diplomat James Wright, who was appointed to the high commissioner's post in August 2006, after previous diplomatic postings in Washington and Moscow.

One of Wright's major responsibilities in London was dealing with Britain and other European allies during Canada's combat mission in Afghanistan.

PM unveils last national marker to 1985 tragedy
Montreal memorial joins Ottawa, Toronto, Vancouver

On the anniversary of the Air India bombings, Prime Minister Stephen Harper is looking both to the past and to the future.

Harper was in Montreal yesterday unveiling the last of four national memorials to the 1985 bombing victims. This new memorial in the waterfront community of Lachine, a polished black stone, follows three similar ones in Toronto, Ottawa and Vancouver.

Harper said it was a day to remember the worst terrorist attack in Canadian history, when 331 people were killed.

The federal government created the Kanishka project to fund $10 million worth of initiatives designed to increase anti-terrorism knowledge — including conferences, publications and major research projects.

"Terrorism has not and will not undermine our way of life," Harper said.

"Our society remains resilient because of the basic values that bind us and make us stronger — freedom, democracy, human rights and the rule of law."

Black's fate in judge's hands

Former press baron to be resentenced Friday ◗ Neither side a victor, whether Conrad Black goes to jail or walks free, legal experts say

For the record

- The length of Conrad Black's sentence will be up for debate on Friday.
- Judge Amy St. Eve could choose to uphold the original six-and-a-half-year sentence, send him back to jail for a lesser time on the remaining convictions or allow him to stay free based on time served.
- Black has exhausted all legal avenues after a last-ditch Supreme Court appeal was denied in May.
- Even if Black is allowed to go free on Friday, he will continue to have a criminal record stemming from his two convictions.
- Full exoneration will take nothing short of a presidential pardon.

Conrad Black will learn whether his days of wearing an orange jumpsuit and sleeping in a cell are behind him when he appears on Friday in the same Chicago courtroom where he was sentenced four years ago.

The Canadian-born former press magnate, who has been free on bail for nearly a year, will appear before U.S. Justice Amy St. Eve at a resentencing hearing.

But even if Black, 66, emerges a free man, the challenge of clearing his name could prove insurmountable because he remains a convicted felon, legal experts say.

"He's going to come out of court on Friday when the judge does not impose additional jail time, and he's going to claim victory," said former prosecutor Jacob Frenkel.

"If someone views being a convicted felon on two counts and having served 29 months a victory, then let him call it a victory."

St. Eve sentenced Black in 2007 to six and a half years in prison for three fraud convictions and another for obstruction of justice, to be served concurrently.

Black had served two and a half years in a penitentiary in Coleman, Fla., before being released on bond last July awaiting an appeal after a Supreme Court ruling that exposed flaws in a federal fraud law.

An appeals court in October reversed two of his fraud convictions.

But Andrew Stoltmann, a Chicago lawyer who has been following Black's case, believes the remaining charges are so serious that he is headed back to jail to serve the rest of his term.

"The fraud and obstruction of justice convictions are very serious, and warrant a six-and-a-half-year sentence of their own," he said.

He said resentencing judges are also charged with considering a defendant's behaviour in jail. Affidavits from Coleman officials claiming that Black shirked his duties will hurt his chances, he said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

New ad campaign toasts the breadbasket

The Canadian Wheat Board and Canada Bread Co. have signed a branding deal to promote Prairie grain across the country.

The board's motto — "Canadian Wheat Makes it Good" — and maple leaf logo will appear on bags of Dempster's WholeGrains bread and in television commercials, print advertising, in-store promotions and online material. A tagline will read: "Prized around the world. Grown on the Prairies."

The Wheat Board is controlled by western Canadian farmers and sells wheat and barley to more than 70 countries. Its monopoly has come under assault in recent years and the federal government has said it will move to allow farmers to sell to whom they choose.

Canada Bread Co. is 90 per cent owned by Maple Leaf Foods. In 2010, Canada Bread had sales of $1.6 billion.

Winklevoss twins drop their Facebook lawsuit

Settlement reached in 2008 includes $45 million in shares Stock now worth more than $100 million

The Harvard University classmates of Facebook founder Mark Zuckerberg are ending the legal battle made famous by the Hollywood movie The Social Network.

In a one-paragraph court filing Wednesday, Cameron and Tyler Winklevoss said they would accept a settlement that was worth $65 million US when agreed upon in 2008.

The twins had sought to undo the settlement of $20 million cash and $45 million in stock.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled against the twins, saying they had been represented by a squadron of Silicon Valley lawyers and their father, a noted business professor.

METRO

1 Late Transition. You may have seen commercials about an analog shutdown on August 31. This transition to "all digital" only impacts people that still use an antennas to receive their TV signal. Not to alienate the dozens of people who still adjust their image via wire hanger attached to the back of Uncle Lenny's wheelchair, but a cable-conversion box is available. Now, I'm not the most tech-savvy person in town, but isn't this like adding a Touch-Tone converter to your rotary phone? Hey, it's 2011. People are watching HBO on their wristwatches. You don't have to dance, but the least you could do is come to the party, Huckleberry. Jeez!

2 Amy Winehouse. After two years of supposed sobriety, her European comeback tour began with her "coming back" to rehab. I suddenly thought it ironic that a notorious alcoholic/junkie should be named "Winehouse," but then I discovered that like many immigrants, her parents had changed their name. The original name was "Crackhouse." (My apologies. I couldn't resist.)

3 Drop the puck. Winnipeg's new NHL franchise was unanimously approved by the league's board of governors. Within three days of announcing the sale, the franchise sold 13,000 season tickets. I've always said that the two best things about Winnipeg in the '80s were hockey and Burton Cummings. Now if they combine the two and have him sing every anthem, I'm watching.

4 Disservice with a smile. Two of our nation's most important service providers, Air Canada and Canada Post, went on strike, forcing consumers to employ other alternatives. Unfortunately, Canadians are having a difficult time adjusting, as they are unaccustomed to receiving good service while being treated well at the same time.

5 Royal economics. The Duke and Duchess of Cambridge, in an effort to save taxpayers' money, will reduce the number of valets or dressers on their foreign tour this month. This simply means that instead of the 14 aides with which daddy, Prince Charles, routinely travels, they will tough it out with a mere six or seven. I don't mean to appear ungrateful for the extra McFlurry I can afford with my tax refund in 2013, but I keep getting distracted by repeated footage of their $80-million wedding!

6 Sotto Voce. The Voice has officially eclipsed American Idol in talent, quality and class. Not a single contestant, even in the opening rounds, was there for the sole purpose of public mockery. Every contestant had chops. I also believe they have identified a great new artist in Javier Colon. If you haven't been watching, check him out on YouTube.

7 Who's the boss? Every Springsteen fan knows the story of that stormy night at Asbury Park in 1971 when Bruce met some football player who apparently "played a little sax." And anyone who's seen a Springsteen show recalls Bruce's introduction of the band. Right before breaking into a rendition of Thunder Road, he'd say, "On saxophone, the incomparable, the big man … Clarence Clemons!" Clarence is gone now, but his music remains.

Worth Mentioning

DINOSAURS. Scientists have figured out a way to take the temperature of dinosaurs, and it turns out to be almost the same as ours.

Of course you can't stick a thermometer under the tongue of a creature that's been extinct for millions of years.

So they did the next best thing. They studied dinosaur teeth, which can reflect body temperature.

They found the long-necked Brachiosaurus had a temperature of about 38.2 C and the smaller Camarasaurus had a temperature of about 36.8 C degrees. People average 37 C.

Their study, reported online Thursday in the journal Science, will not settle the long-running debate over whether dinosaurs were warm-blooded like modern mammals or cold-blooded, requiring outside sources of warmth to get them going like lizards.

The researchers were able to determine the creatures' temperatures because body temperature makes a difference in the amount of different types of carbon and oxygen that collect in the tooth enamel.

Gilbert Herrick says he never got married because he never met the right woman — until he turned 98.

Now 99, the Second World War veteran and retired postal worker from western New York recently married 86-year-old Virginia Hartman, a widower who raised five children.

Gilbert tells the Democrat and Chronicle of Rochester that their first encounter was in 2010 in a hall at Monroe Community Hospital, the nursing home where they both live. After that, he started visiting her every day.

Gilbert says they wanted to share a room, but the facility's rules don't allow it unless a couple is married. Hartman asked him if he wanted to tie the knot, he said yes and they were married on June 6 with Hartman's extended family on hand.

Plot synopsis

- In the new Cameron Diaz movie, Bad Teacher, she plays – you guessed it – a bad teacher! More concerned with hooking up with a wealthy co-worker (played by her real-life ex Justin Timberlake) than with her students, she doesn't make much of an effort to actually educate until she learns there's a cash bonus for the teacher with the highest classroom grade average.

Turn up the raunch

Richard Crouse and Tony Krolo agree Bad Teacher could have afforded more vulgarity But Cameron Diaz shines, as does her supporting cast

Comedian Tony Krolo is sitting in for Mark Breslin this week.

Richard Crouse: Tony, having seen the red band trailer for Bad Teacher I went in expecting a vulgar, funny swear-fest along the same lines as The Hangover. Instead I got a funny, only somewhat vulgar movie that I think could have benefitted from a bit more raunch. Don't get me wrong, I liked it, but my expectations were higher... or, I guess, lower. What did you think? (Remember you have big shoes to fill here!)

Tony Krolo: First let me thank you for the opportunity to temporarily replace the vacationing Mark Breslin. I wanted to like this movie... so I did. From the opening song Teacher, Teacher by Rockpile, something I still have on original vinyl, to the great casting in even the smallest of roles to the sweet moments followed immediately by gross sight gags to the nicely paced direction by Jake Kasdan, Bad Teacher had a little bit of everything. But it could have had a lot more raunch, you're right.

RC: Yeah, it seems a bit afraid to go all the way. Diaz's character, a desperate, pretty-on-the-outside but ugly underneath is an odd character to hang a comedy on, but she pulls it off. She'll never be the funny, fresh face she was in There's Something About Mary and The Mask, and for this movie that's a good thing. The very slight patina of age and experience in her manner adds some extra desperation to Elizabeth. Having said that, I don't think this movie would work nearly as well without the supporting cast. You?

TK: The cast was incredible. Justin Timberlake really shines here. Jason Segel, John Michael Higgins, Phyllis Smith from The Office, they do their usual, great characters, but Eric Stonestreet from Modern Family played opposite to what you would expect, to really funny results. The only sad thing was the grossly underused Molly Shannon. It's sad. If she was 15 years younger, she'd have been perfect to play Lucy Punch's Amy Squirrel character, who I felt was doing a great Molly Shannon.

RC: The supporting cast don't exactly rescue this movie – it doesn't need rescuing – but without them Bad Teacher wouldn't be nearly as much fun.

TK: It is very funny if you can allow your suspension of disbelief to ignore the premise that Cameron Diaz's character actually worked at the school for a full year and gets hired back to have the shenanigans in this movie.

Hanks up against summer superheros

His new comedy, Larry Crowne, faces stiff competition this movie season
About a middle-aged man in college

NED EHRBAR
MWN IN HOLLYWOOD

Tom Hanks is the first to admit that Larry Crowne, his new comedy about a middle-aged man who goes back to college after losing his job, is something of a hard sell in the crowded, superhero-heavy summer movie season.

"How do we compete in the marketplace? Forgive me, I haven't the slightest f---ing idea. It's going to be interesting," Hanks says.

"Here we are in a summer of big-time blockbusters. It's not the summer — it's year-round," he says. "You could interview all the marketing gurus and they'll all talk about release dates and counter-programming and blah blah blah. But at the end of the day, it's got to be a good movie, it's got to be a funny movie and it's got to make people think, 'Hey, I couldn't have spent my time any better.'"

A tall order, to be sure. But as director, co-writer and the face of the titular Crowne, Hanks is more than up to the challenge. Besides, he's not actually that worried about the competition. "By the way, that thing about the guy who wore a suit and the planet exploded and he still got the girl by travelling through time? That movie sucked," Hanks says with a laugh. "I'm not saying any movie sucked, but you know what I'm talking about," he's quick to add, his inherent Mr. Nice Guy kicking in.

The story of a man heading to college in his 50s might make most people think midlife crisis, but for Hanks that doesn't begin to cover it. "It's not a midlife crisis, it's a midlife disaster," he says. "Midlife crisis is when you wake up with everything — 'Oh, I have everything but I'm still unhappy.' That doesn't happen to Larry. Larry thinks it's the greatest day in the world and he gets fired."

▶ Julia Roberts and Tom Hanks star in Larry Crowne.

And while not graduating college did work out OK for Hanks, he is quick to point out that he and his leading lady, Julia Roberts, still remember the tough times, Oscars or no Oscars.

"There is a time for both of us where we're living in a rented house in the Valley that we cannot afford, we have been fired from the job that we had and it's now been 13 months since you've actually worked in the city and the phone still is not yet ringing," Hanks says. "And you wonder if in fact you're going to take the job at the Wienerschnitzel on Laurel Canyon. When you have that moment, that never quite goes away."

Thinking big pays off for Gibson

Actor stars in much anticipated Transformers flick
Motivational book on New York Times Bestseller list

RICHARD CROUSE
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Tyrese Gibson, the handsome singer and actor, thinks big.

Making his new film, Transformers: Dark of the Moon, was intense, he says, because "we were working on something the world is anticipating."

Later he mentions Michelle Obama is a fan of his book How to Get Out of Your Own Way. "I'm going to meet her one day," he muses. "She was probably reading my book in bed and her husband came to bed. 'What are you reading, baby?' 'Oh, Tyrese's new book.'"

Gibson doesn't regard these overblown statements as hubris but as simple statements of fact. It's hard to argue with him. The third Transformers movie is one of the most anticipated of the year and his book is on the New York Times Bestseller list.

The key to his success is something called "maximizing the stage," he says.

"As these opportunities come up you dream with your eyes open. You want to become or be a part of the things that you see. There is only so much in your life that you can plan out.

"It's arrogant to believe that the next second belongs to you. Tomorrow is a promise so now that we're here it's about maximizing."

Thinking big has paid off for Gibson.

"I shot both Fast Five and Transformers simultaneously over seven months," he says. "Hanging out with Vin Diesel and Paul Walker from 6 a.m. to 11 a.m. and then getting on a private plane to get to Michael Bay.

"The same day; two different movie sets. That's a good life right there baby."

Cars 2
Genre: Animated
Director: John Lasseter, Brad Lewis
Stars: Larry The Cable Guy, Owen Wilson, Michael Caine
½

After Pixar's ambitious work on titles such as Ratatouille and Wall-E, this is a disappointment. The first Cars was arguably the weakest Pixar outing, but it at least had moments of pathos and the mature storytelling.

Cars 2 shoves Lightening McQueen to the sidelines of his own franchise in favour of an ill-conceived James Bond homage starring the comic relief character Mater. The material might have worked as a direct-to-DVD sequel exclusively for children, but as a big-screen outing that will draw in all ages it's a letdown.

The convoluted plot wants to comment on the ruthless tactics of corporations determined to maintain fossil fuel dominance, but quickly turns into an mistaken identity comedy with Larry The Cable Guy playing spy games with Michael Caine.

The jokes are tired and the message about accepting friends in spite of their differences was already covered last time. The animation is stunning and there are a handful of funny sequences, but it's impossible not to compare it to the original movie.

Pixar set the bar pretty high for animated fare and at this point simple family escapism like Cars 2 isn't enough. PHIL BROWN

A true Transformation

Bay promises audiences will notice a difference between the second part of his series and coming third

Director Michael Bay promises that the third Transformers movie is way better than the second.

The 46-year-old's pride was bruised after part two of the franchise, 2009's Transformers: Revenge of the Fallen, did a bang-up job at the box office (bringing in more than $400 million domestically) but was roundly beat-up by critics.

Rolling Stone's Peter Travers said the movie was so "beyond bad, it carves out its own category of godawfulness." It also won the Razzie that year for worst director, worst script and worst film.

Now, Bay is back with Transformers: Dark of the Moon, which opens in IMAX 3-D on Tuesday night and goes wide at midnight Wednesday. When asked to describe the new movie, Bay said, "it's a lot better than No. 2. This one is much more of a mystery," he said. "It's really epic in scope, it's got more heart. It's kind of back down to basics. Movie two, we kind of went off on a tangent."

"Spielberg said to me, 'This is the best 3-D I've ever seen'. And, you know, he doesn't blow smoke."
DIRECTOR MICHAEL BAY

That tangent brought Sam Witwicky (Shia LaBeouf) and his giant robot friends and foes to Egypt, where he and the noble Autobots fought to save humankind – and the Earth and the sun – from the evil Decepticons. LaBeouf said the second film was "just far too complicated," but volume three is "simple enough to be able to enjoy. ... It's without a doubt our best film."

Besides a more straightforward plot, it introduces new cast members Frances McDormand, John Malkovich, Patrick Dempsey, Ken Jeong and Victoria's Secret model Rosie Hungtington-Whiteley. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

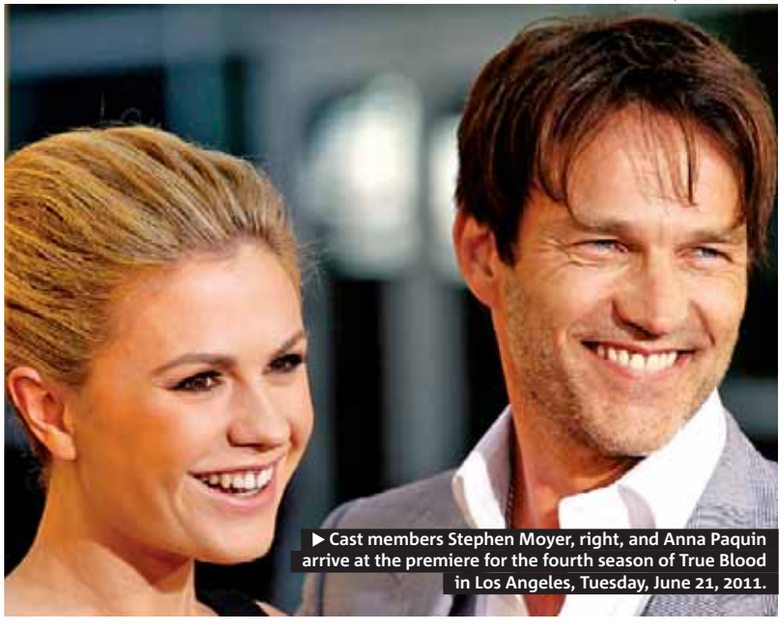
True Blood ups suspense

MATT SAYLES/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS



▶ Cast members Stephen Moyer, right, and Anna Paquin arrive at the premiere for the fourth season of True Blood in Los Angeles, Tuesday, June 21, 2011.

◗ Vampire drama an international success, shown in 50 countries worldwide ◗ Fourth season premieres Sunday

When last True Blood fans saw the vampire drama's beloved heroine, Sookie Stackhouse had disappeared in a flash of light.

"At the end of season three, Sookie was taken away, as we know, by the fairy queen," explains Stephen Moyer, who plays vampire Bill Compton in the HBO series.

"And so we know that that's very possibly where she may be, as without giving much away. And so we may begin the episode with that."

Cast and crew of the popular show gathered Tuesday night in Hollywood for their fourth-season premiere, but chose their words even more carefully than usual, so not to reveal any of the bounty of spoilers for the Sunday-night debut on HBO (9 p.m. EDT).

"Sookie has some adventures in Fairyland," Anna Paquin reveals playfully about the character she plays.

"Sookie has some persona life adventures. Sookie ends up in danger. Sookie ends up in more danger. Sookie somehow ends up narrowly escaping getting killed on various occasions, as usual. You know, it's just an average day in Bon Temps."

Fiona Shaw has been added to the cast as the leader of a coven of witches, a new element to True Blood.

"She is formidable and amazing, and I think everyone's going to really love her," Paquin says.

The fourth season of Blood marks the first that Paquin, 28, and Moyer, 41, have worked together on the series as wife and husband. The two were wed in August 2010.

"Most people who work in film or TV almost never see their families and spouses, so I consider it an absolute luxury to get to actually see mine at work," says Paquin.

The future is hilarious

MATT GROENING/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ "He's a robot, not a role model," says series creator Matt Groening of Bender.

For Bender fans, the new season of Futurama is mandatory. For romantics eager to see Fry and lovely Leela draw closer, it's a must-see. And devotees of Japanese anime, get ready for a treat.

In other words, skip the Emmy-winning Futurama in its second year on Comedy Central, and you'll be sorry — whether you're a science fiction fan or not.

The former Fox animated series tracks the adventures of pizza delivery boy Philip Fry (voiced by Billy West), who inadvertently turned himself into a human Popsicle in 1999 and woke up 1,000 years later. Employment (whew!) was available.

At Planet Express, an intergalactic delivery service, Fry works alongside Leela (Katey Sagal), a tough, one-eyed babe, and best friend Bender (John DiMaggio), a robot whose grip on morality and manners is tenuous.

The 13-episode run kicks off with the episode titled, Neutopia. The Planet Express crew crashes on a planet inhabited by a being who, unfamiliar with the concept of gender, decides to experiment on our heroes and heroines.

Pitch-perfect satire ensues, with both sexes taking it on the chin.

Beady Eye not resting on success from Oasis' days Accepting the breakup, they're now moving on

LINDA LABAN
METRO WORLD NEWS

Beady Eye sees the former members of Oasis, including frontman Liam Gallagher, but minus brother Noel, downsizing tours and playing smaller venues.

However, forging ahead with this new band has upped their game.

"It's weird, man," says guitarist Gem Archer, "because I think a lot more bands should split up."

Known for the sibling rivalry of the brothers Gallagher as much as their melodic Brit-pop hits, Oasis suddenly, though not too surprisingly, fractured in 2009.

As Archer considers the quote he just provided, he laughs at how it could be taken as typically acerbic for these Brit-pop vets.

"I mean as an exercise," he adds.

"Imagine if every band said, 'Look, for the next tour we're going to do all the new songs and only sticking in three or four (old ones).'"

Oasis factor

Inevitably, Beady Eye have plenty of Oasis fans in their audiences. Metro asked Gem which of the Brit-pop giant's songs do audiences yell requests for?

- Quote: "We haven't had one," says Gem. "That said, we take every gig as it comes. But, so far, everyone's bought in really quickly to it. And been really respectful. Because we've been clear about it. We haven't been dabbling around saying we are going to play old songs. We've drawn the line and stepped over it. If people want to come along with us, all the better for them."
- Tour? For now there are not firm plans for a North American tour to promote their new songs

That is exactly what Beady Eye's challenge is.

Though they look and sound familiar, they don't want to lazily rest on old laurels and play Oasis hits on this first world tour, which includes only a handful of U.S. dates and a promise, says Gem, to return for more before the end of the year.

"It was a bit of a mindf— to sort of go, 'Look this is all we've got,'" Gem says of the band's debut album, Different Gear, Still Speeding, which was released in February.

"It raises your game."

The new kings of Sweden

Royal Republic unites in humour and accidental Nazi salutes The hard partying tunes bring the noise

PAT HEALY
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN BOSTON

It can be difficult to take what Royal Republic singer Adam Grahn says seriously. It's not just his huge handlebar mustache or that he sings lyrics like, "I can see your underwear!" in the chorus of one of his band's biggest hits.

It's that he makes a lot of jokes in conversation that are in perfect keeping with the Swedish band's hard-rocking party tunes, as represented on their debut from last year, We Are the Royal.

It sounds like you're having a lot of fun singing these songs...

We're having too much fun. This album is all about having fun. We're just four dudes. It's just bullshit. There's nothing in there really, just stupid music stories about stupid made up people and the thing with all the happiness and all of the good stuff is that we'll have to write some emo, cut-yourself-into-pieces album to compensate.

Humour is definitely a big component of the first album. How important to you is that?

For us, it was really important. We didn't want to be a heavy band, lyrically. We're happy guys. We have a lot of energy and this is what came out. We started writing for this album and the lyrics were really secondary. It was really about the whole package — the way you deliver the songs, the energy and everything and the connection with the audience.

HANDOUT

▶ Never ones to take themselves too seriously, Royal Republic is turning some serious heads with their fresh approach party rock.

Playing so many shows with this one album, I'd imagine you're always looking for a way to keep yourself interested in what you're doing onstage.

We kind of had an incident the other week in Germany. We were headlining a pretty small festival, of like 3,000 to 4,000 people. I just recently came up with this thing, in the middle of a song, in the middle of a set, I thought, 'I'm going to bring the audience in and wave their hands back and forth'"

And I just lost it. I started saying, 'Everybody look at the dude with the mustache on the stage. Everybody do what the guy with the mustache is doing. Hands up!' And I was putting my arm out straight and going, 'Up, up!' (in German). And none of us thought about it until four days after in the van, our tour manager just turned his head in horror and was like, 'Adam, do you realize what we did the other day?'

Still involved in the music scene

Despite hanging up his microphone, Henry Rollins is still finding ways to give back to what helped build him

NOLAN GAWRON
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Often called a Renaissance Man, Henry Rollins prefers to classify himself more modestly as a "jackass-of-all-trades."

First gaining notoriety as the fourth and most famous singer in the hardcore band, Black Flag, Rollins is now a performer of spoken word, an author with his own publishing company, an actor, commentator, and a relentless mouthpiece for hardnosed opinions.

You're still very involved in the music scene. Do you miss playing in bands?

I miss music, but I know that I wouldn't be able to do anything with it that would be any good ... In my LA Weekly article coming out this week, I talk about Dinosaur Jr. and how they are still making really good music and really good songs.

So where did this idea to interview Dinosaur Jr. onstage before the show come from?

You'd have to ask the band. They contacted me. Being such a huge Dinosaur Jr. fan, the upside for me is that I get to see the band play eight times in eight nights… and I'm going to watch all eight shows. I'm just a fan.

How serious are you going to be when it comes to the interview?

Damn serious. I want to give the audience some context so 20 minutes later, when they hear the album live, they might consider the songs differently. This isn't a normal set by Dinosaur. They're doing a historic record and I think the questions should stick to the spirit of what they're doing.

MUSIC INDUSTRY CATCHING ON TO SECRECY AS A MARKETING TOOL

SOUND CHECK

ALAN CROSS
SCENE
@METRONEWS.CA

Usually, the route to fame requires help: publicists, pluggers, and plenty of public appearances (cf. Lady Gaga). But in the ultra-short attention span world of today's music, I've noticed that an increasing number of performers are becoming famous by staying anonymous.

The publishing world has known about the marketing power for anonymity for decades. Now some quarters of the music world seems to be applying the same methods. Smart, this, since the intrigued are forced to embark on competitive detective work that may go on for weeks or months, creating buzz and increasing chances of a breakthrough in a noisy market.

An example is Cults, the boy-girl indie pop outfit from Manhattan who created a stir in the hipster blogger community when they released a well-received EP in 2010 without offering any information about themselves. That mystery parlayed itself — intentionally or otherwise — into a major label deal. The British music media recently fell for Manchester's Wu Lyf. They gave no interviews and made no appearances. All communication was one-way through their website, which consisted of weird mission statements in language that bordered on nonsensical. There was one picture: four people wearing bandanas in a smoky parking lot. Only now that they have an album coming out has Wu Lyf begun to talk. Their manager has been revealed as the founder of a creative agency whose clients include Adidas and Virgin. All this was carefully staged.

At first, all anyone knew about Brighton's YAAKS was that the line-up included someone named Thom and five mates. Their identity is still pretty unclear, but that hasn't stopped a sizeable number of people from freaking out about a single called HRHRHYTHM.

Hey, who says you have to be famous and recognizable?

Answer He's a man of few words. He lets his music do the talking to a very great degree. He's a nice guy and he's funny too. He has good taste is music and is very low-key.

Train produces wine for fans

The Grammy-winning group Train has been making waves with its wine club, and now, the trio is taking the next step with its own wine.

Starting next week, fans will be able to buy Drops of Jupiter Petite Sirah wine from Train's online wine club and other outlets. The name is a nod to one of Train's earlier hits, and is produced by the group's wine company, Save Me, San Francisco Wine Co., which takes its title from a Train album.

But Train guitarist Jimmy Stafford said the wine venture isn't an attempt to make a profit on the Train name — it's more about creating something special for fans.

"We're not really trying to get into the wine business or anything. It's really kind of helping to spread the name out there, and something for our fans," he said in a phone interview Tuesday.

"We're not really trying to get into the wine business or anything. It's ... something for our fans"

Train, which won a Grammy Award this year for Hey, Soul Sister, has had an online wine club for a while. The group promotes a wine of the month, has a blog and even an app.

A Flood of changes for the Glasvegas

Working with renowned producer Flood, Glasvegas changed half of their new album The move from guitarist to frontman for James Allan proves just what the band needed to hit their stride with new album

PAT HEALY
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN BOSTON

Glasvegas guitarist Rab Allan is quick to diss his cousin James, who played guitar and sang on the band's 2009 debut, but is only listed as the singer on their new album, Euphoric///Heartbreak\\\.

"I think he just wore it because it looked good," he says.

The Scottish rockers' sophomore effort is decidedly different from their debut, and Allan says they owe that to more than just one less guitarist. With famed producer Flood (U2, Nine Inch Nails) in the studio with them, they achieved guitar sounds they previously thought weren't possible.

I read that you finished doing demos on your own in California, and then took them to Flood. How much changed between the original recordings and the finished results?
I guess it depends on how you look at the role of the producer. About half of the demos are what's on the album. In terms of structure, not a lot changed. The song You was completely different. It was something James did with just piano and his vocal sounded like John Lennon, so that was one of the biggest changes Flood made. But it was more like confidence and experience with sounds that he

Why is James no longer listed as a guitarist?
To be honest, I don't think it was plugged in most of the time. So the band actually sounds better with him not playing guitar.

Is he going to be upset that you're telling me this?
No, he felt quite trapped with a guitar on his shoulder because he couldn't express himself enough, so he wanted to have a bit more freedom.

Is he doing any cartwheels or backflips on stage now with this freedom?
You know what? He keeps jumping off the stage and just falling on his ass. He's getting quite good at doing that. That's one thing that he's got a talent for. But you know, I'm actually surprised how well he's taken to being the frontman, if you want to call it that, not that I've ever doubted he could do it.

Do you feel any more responsibility now that you're the only guitarist?
I actually feel less responsibility because I had to cover up his mistakes before. He used to make me look bad.

Are you serious?
No, I'm joking. But I don't feel more responsibility. I feel as though it's my thing. When he played guitar, I wasn't the only guitarist, so I couldn't say, "I'm the guitarist." But now I'm the guitarist, Paul [Donoghue] is the bass player, Jonna [Löfgren] is the drummer and he's the singer, so they're quite defined roles.

▶ British author J.K. Rowling reads from Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone during the Easter Egg Roll on the South Lawn of the White House April 5, 2010 in Washington, DC.

J.K. Rowling today announced plans for a brand new Harry Potter-based website, Pottermore.com, that will give fans the opportunity to live the books again in an interactive way.

The site, which launches in October, will allow fans to immerse themselves in the adventures of Harry Potter and add their own touches to the tales.

"Just as the experience of reading requires that the imaginations of the reader and author work together to create the story, so Pottermore will be built, in part, by you the reader."

Fans will be able to create a profile and join a Hogwarts house, as well as interact with other characters, play games, earn points by creating spells and potions, answer questions, pick up facts and new information and add their own comments and drawings, as they shape their own journey through Harry Potter's world.

"It is exactly like an ex-boyfriend. Finishing writing Harry — I have only ever cried in that way and that much when my mother died. I have never cried for a man the way I cried for Harry Potter."
J.K. ROWLING

"I'll be joining in too because I'll be sharing additional information that I've been hoarding for years about the world of Harry Potter," said Rowling of ideas that she dug out of her archive.

The author said that she wanted to be able to give something unique back to her "wonderful, diverse and loyal readership" and called the new site an "online reading experience unlike any other."

Of course it won't all be for free — the site will also be the exclusive store for digital audio books and for the first time, ebooks of the Harry Potter series as well as regular books.

MWN WITH FILES FROM THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The magic lives on

The site goes live July 31, when 1 million registered users will be chosen to help flesh out the online world.

Tobey Maguire among celebs reportedly caught ante-ing up at unlicensed poker matches Spidey actor caught in a web of lawsuits

GETTY IMAGES

Tobey Maguire

Spider-Man star Tobey Maguire and other celebrities have been caught in a web of lawsuits seeking to reclaim more than $4 million won during unlicensed poker matches at upscale Beverly Hills hotels, court records show.

The lawsuits were filed by a bankruptcy trustee attempting to recoup money for investors who were duped in a Ponzi scheme.

The legal actions claim the clandestine Texas Hold 'em matches were played between 2006 and 2009, with some of the money taken in the Ponzi scheme used to pay off debts incurred by its architect, Bradley Ruderman.

Maguire is being sued for $311,000 plus interest that the lawsuit says was won from Ruderman. In all, 22 people have been individually sued to try to recoup money.

Among them was Nick Cassavettes, director of The Notebook. The trustee is attempting to recover nearly $73,000 plus interest from the actor-director.

Maguire's attorney, Robert Barta, did not immediately return a phone message seeking comment but was expected to file a response to the suit later this week. Cassavettes' agent Jeff Berg also did not immediately respond to a phone message. Also being sued is billionaire businessman Alec Gores, who along with his brother attempted to buy Miramax Films last year.

Gores is being sued for $445,500. Phone message left for Frank Stefanik, a spokesman at The Gores Group, and his attorney, Patricia Glaser, were not immediately returned.

Ruderman was sentenced to 10 years in federal prison earlier this year after pleading guilty to two counts of wire fraud, two counts of investment adviser fraud and wilful failure to file taxes. Bankruptcy trustee Howard Ehrenberg filed the lawsuits in late March, attempting to recoup money on behalf of people who invested in what the legal action called a Ponzi scheme organized by Ruderman. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clooney single

George Clooney and Elisabetta Canalis have split up, they announced in a statement this week. "We are not together anymore. It's very difficult and very personal, and we hope everyone can respect our privacy," the statement reads. Speaking of Spider-Man

Emma Stone and Andrew Garfield reportedly had so much fun filming The Amazing Spider-Man that they've continued their friendship even after production wrapped up — and have become more than friends, according to Us Weekly.

Sharon Osbourne says she wouldn't have reacted as calmly as Maria Shriver did to news that her husband, Arnold Schwarzenegger, had an illegitimate child with a housekeeper. "I would have chopped his willy off. Arnie's willy would have been down the disposal unit spinning around, that's where it'd be," Osbourne says, according to Hollyscoop. "I was really, really disappointed at him for being so horribly disrespectful and deceitful to do that in your own home. He can do whatever he wants in hotels on the road, whatever, knock yourself out, but you don't disrespect your family by doing it in your own home. To me it's just unthinkable." METRO

Pizza pie heaven

This pizza takes the Italian favourite to a whole new level Grilling this Sweet Potato and Sausage Pizza infuses delicious smoky flavours

BOTH PHOTOS: MATTHEW MEAD/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Grilling pizza offers a new flavour.

Summer grilling season is a great excuse to give the pizza delivery guy a break. Grilling infuses pizza with a wonderful smoky flavour and a crisp, chewy crust.

But you need to know a few basics.

First, your toppings need to be precooked because the pizza won't be on the grill long enough to cook them there. Second, it's important to start with clean, well-oiled grates because the dough will stick to charred food left on them.

Finally, start by grilling the dough plain until the bottom is lightly browned. Then oil the top, flip and add your sauce and other toppings to finish cooking.

Ingredients:

- 1 medium sweet potato
- 2 sweet or spicy Italian chicken sausage, each cut diagonally into 8 slices
- 1 ball (about 567 g/20 oz) pizza dough
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) olive oil
- 1 ball (500 g/16 oz) fresh mozzarella, sliced
- Salt and ground black pepper, to taste
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) chopped fresh thyme

Preparation:

1. Bring a medium saucepan of water to a boil. Peel sweet potato and slice it into 3-mm (1/8-inch) slices. Drop slices into boiling water and boil until just tender, but not falling apart, 5 to 7 minutes. Drain sweet potatoes, then set aside.

2. Heat grill to medium-high. Grill sausage slices until charred and cooked through, about 3 minutes per side. Remove from grill and set aside.

3. Clean grill grates and brush with oil. Stretch pizza dough into a rough circle, about 35 centimetres in diameter. Reduce grill to medium heat, set dough on grate. Close lid and grill for 7 minutes or until bottom is golden.

4. Brush top of pizza crust with half of olive oil and flip over. Brush again with remaining oil. Top with sweet potato slices, cooked sausage pieces and mozzarella slices. Close grill and cook for 8 minutes or until cheese is melted and bottom of crust is golden and crispy. Remove from grill and sprinkle with salt, pepper and thyme.

When you're a wine it's not that easy being pink. Caught between a red and a white place you're often accused of being designed for folks looking to take a step up from coolers.

Though California's White Zinfandel may be the best known pinky, Europe and South America have long histories of making rosé wines.

Theirs are typically drier with crisp berry fruit flavours. Light in acid and tannin they make a perfect match with pasta with tomato sauce and pizza.

That harmony between body and fruit also gives them an edge over red wines when looking for a liquid partner for white meats and fresh fish

Selection varies, with a wine like Folonari's 2010 Pink Pinot Grigio ($11.95 - $12.99) from Italy, a soft, strawberry-infused twist on the world's most popular white grape variety.

Decision day arrives

Flyers' blockbuster trades could signal more as teams prepare for NHL draft

What was thought would be a straight-forward NHL draft highlighted by Ryan Nugent-Hopkins being picked first by the Edmonton Oilers became a more mysterious place Thursday after an explosion of trades by the Philadelphia Flyers.

Now the question going into the opening round on Friday night is not only where the top dozen or more highly regarded 18-year-olds in this year's pool will be selected, but what sudden moves may be made on the Excel Centre floor.

Already, the Columbus Blue Jackets have dealt away the eighth overall pick, plus 21-year-old Jakob Voracek and a third-rounder, to the Flyers for veteran centre Jeff Carter.

That came just before Philadelphia general manager Paul Holmgren sent his captain Mike Richards to the Los Angeles Kings for two players.

Top picks

After Edmonton, Colorado drafts second, but they have good defence prospects and may want a big forward in Sweden's Gabriel Landeskog, who is captain of the Kitchener Rangers.

- Florida, which also has good young blue-liners like Erik Gudbranson in the fold, holds the third pick and may also want a forward. They are followed by New Jersey, the New York Islanders, Ottawa, Winnipeg/Manitoba, Philadelphia, Boston (from Toronto in the Phil Kessel deal) and Minnesota.

Now there's a sense it may set off a round of big deals involving several other clubs.

"That probably will shake some other things moving, but it doesn't affect anything we're working on," said Toronto Maple Leafs general manager Brian Burke, who nonetheless is ready to move his 25th and 30th overall first-round picks plus a high second rounder if he can get a good NHL-ready skater.

It was already a tough draft to call, with widely varying opinions among scouts on what order to place the strong crop of prospects that come after Nugent-Hopkins, the skinny playmaking centre from the Red Deer Rebels who is a consensus choice as the top pick.

The Oilers hold the first pick and, without confirming it, have given every indication they will add Nugent-Hopkins to a pool of talented young forwards that includes last year's first-overall pick Taylor Hall as well as Sam Gagner, Magnus Paajarvi and others.

"If I do go first there's a lot of young guys there who have gone through the same things I have, so they'll be great to talk to," Nugent-Hopkins said. "I joined a rebuilding team in Red Deer a couple of years ago and I really liked that.

"Edmonton is going through the same thing right now. I'd love to join a rebuilding team like that and help them to the ultimate goal, which is the Stanley Cup, eventually."

Send a KISS

You can now post your kiss, and read even more kisses, online at metronews.ca/kiss.

Dear chico, you are lovely inside and out. Have a great last day! LOVE POO POO

Kali,
Usted es la única mujer para mí, I will always love you. ROBOTIC DINOSAUR BOY

Peter, Had a wife and could-n't keep her soooooooooooo HE MAR-RIES another one ? When? Someday? Oh really!!! PUMPKIN

Mike My Spanish Boy
The universe stopped from reaching you, just like you did on Tuesday. The kisses, the love, the connection, I have always felt the same way. Now I am straight in Metro office, trying to send this once again (for the 40th time in the last 3 days). Come back. NIKITA

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Don't do anything that might set off a war of words, or a flood of tears with friends or loved ones.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 It may be a carefree time, but don't think you can do as you please.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 There's money to be made this weekend, but if you take silly chances you could also lose money.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 This is your time of year. You must make the most of it, but you must also be conscious of your limits.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 High expectations are good but you also need to keep your feet on the ground.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 You may think you can take on the world but you wouldn't be wise to expect too much of yourself now.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 The moment success starts to go to your head is the moment your luck will start heading south.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 It's not like you to be outrageous but you've just got to do something to break the cycle of boredom.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Don't be shocked if someone you could always count on decides not to go along with your plans.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 If you want to get things done, you'll have to work closely with others.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Slow down a bit and catch your breath. If you don't, health-wise, that's asking for trouble.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. Be selective about your ambitions — and be ruthless with how you manage your time. SALLY BROMPTON
